At this time there seems to be no quality standards at all for captioning on television programming. This results is a wide disparity of quality. Some of the programming is so bad as to be laughable. In the case of news, documentaries, and educational programs in particular this can be misleading to the viewers. We need some standards for quality. I strongly dislike watching shows with words left out, poor spelling and grammar.